

Wendy Marus - My name is Wendy Marus; I am a veteran teacher and homeschool mom with a twenty-six-year track record of successfully educating students of all ages. I have been instructing at Compass Prep for nine years. With a lifelong love of learning, I was led to homeschool my own children, and I have five successful homeschool graduates. I love seeing how God has gifted each and every student with unique talents, strengths, and personalities.

I have a degree in Liberal Arts, majoring in English, and more recently have attended Gordon Conwell Theological Seminary, expanding my education into Christian Studies.

Over the years, I have been a leader in the homeschool community in the HINTS support group in Charlotte, NC, and serving on the Board of Compass Prep. I grew up in Indian Land, SC, and currently live in Charlotte, NC.

In addition to teaching, I spend my afternoons at a Christian ministry mentoring and tutoring underprivileged children in Uptown Charlotte, helping them increase their grades and test scores. In my spare time, I love to read, and I assist my husband in his remodeling business, helping to design kitchens and bathrooms.
